

ALLIED AERIAL CAMPAIGN TO SEVER NAZIS' RAIL COMMUNICATIONS WITH FRANCE AND GERMANY GAINS NEW FURY

Crippling Blow Centers on Cannes — Knock Out Second Of Two Lines Connecting France with Italy; All of the American Bombers Return

By International News Service

The Allied aerial campaign to sever Nazi rail communications with France and Italy gained new fury during the night when RAF heavy bombers smashed the French Riviera coastal railway route into Italy, the Air Ministry announced today.

The crippling blow was centered on Cannes and knocked out the second of the two lines connecting France with Italy.

The concentrated British night assault on Cannes came only a few hours after American Liberators crossed the Alps from Italian bases and blasted the railroad at Antheor, near Cannes, and ranged northward over eastern France to pummel the rail yards and an important ball-bearing factory at Annecy.

All of the American bombers returned.

RAF Wellingtons operating from Italian bases bombarded railway yards at Prato, near Florence, Berlin, Hanover and targets in the Ruhr were hammered during the night by other British bombers.

ALGHERS, Nov. 12.—(INS).—The Fifth and Eighth Armies marked time today as the results of several days of rainy weather caught up with and hampered operations in general.

Mechanized movement on the whole gave way entirely to stalling infantrymen. Both Allied armies utilized the weather to consolidate their own position along the ground gained during the week.

The proximity of the main German strongholds of the winter line was reflected in consistent counter-attacks supported by artillery and mortars from well-entrenched positions. Fresh Nazi-counter-attacks were beaten back today by the Fifth Army in western Italy.

Needlework Guild Meets at Woodside

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 12.—The Woodside Branch of the Needlework Guild held its annual ingathering at the home of the president, Mrs. Wendell F. Oliver, of the Ferry Road.

Each director of the guild brought in two new identical garments for a total of 602, as well as $14.89 in money.

The garments will be turned over to the Morrisville Chapter of the Red Cross, Miss Laura Koch, the community nurse; the Morrisville welfare board in charge of Mrs. Howell Windle; Fallington and Morrisville schools; the Yardley welfare bureau and the American Friends Service Committee.

Directors of the branch include the following: Mrs. Oliver, president; Mrs. Floyd Platt, secretary; Mrs. J. Augustus Cadwallader, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles Conover, Miss Elizabeth Weeks, Mrs. Joseph White, Mrs. Clarence Harvey, Makeloff Mothers Club, Miss Paulina Leight, Miss Anne E. Winder, Mrs. Isaac Carter, Mrs. Austin Lear, Mrs. Charles Rowe, Mrs. E. Fenimore Sutphin, and Mrs. Herbert Conover.

Maritime Award Given Newtown Plant

NEWTOWN, Nov. 12.—The United States Maritime Commission has given approval to the Newtown Tile Company to fly the Maritime Victory Eagle Flag. With this goes the privilege of the employees to wear the emblem of the Victory Eagle. These will be presented individually by the company.

The Newtown Tile Company has been manufacturing floor tile for merchant ships ever since the Victory Fleet program began, and the largest portion of the company's production is devoted to this work.

The commendation of the United States Maritime Commission was forwarded to the company by Mark O'Dea, director of public relations for the commission.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

James Carr, aged 55, Bristol road, Churchville, was killed by a hit-and-run motorist as he was walking along the Roosevelt Boulevard, 33 yards from City Line, Tuesday evening. Carr's identity was established from cards found in his pockets.

Lawrence Miller, of 4723 Princeton avenue, Phila., driving along the outboard lane of the dual highway, discovered the body at 8 p. m., when the headlights of his automobile outlined the form lying on the roadway, just a few feet from the shoulder.

Miller drove back to Southampton road where he picked up Park Guard Joseph Friday, and together they took the body to Philadelphia State Hospital, Byberry.

A subsequent investigation by park guards in the area in which the body was found revealed a freshly broken ornament from a radiator cap.

Children should budget their time and work in the school, it was brought out in a panel discussion featuring the meeting of the Buckingham Parent-Teacher Association in the high school building, Buckingham. It was brought out if the pupils follow this plan, not so much home work will be required.

Miss Matrona Walck, a member of the faculty, was in charge of the discussion.

CALEB T. KNIGHT IS STRUCK BY AN AUTO

Both Legs Fractured; Was Enroute to Work at S. Langhorne

NOW IN HOSPITAL

LANGHORNE, Nov. 12.—A resident of Langhorne Manor, Caleb Taylor Knight, 69, sustained fractures of both legs when struck by an automobile one block from his Langhorne Manor home, early this morning.

Mr. Knight was removed to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., in the ambulance of Parkland First Aid Squad, his condition being pronounced by hospital officials as "fairly good."

The aged man had left his home on Bellevue avenue at 6.30 to go to his employment at the mill of Enterprise Wallpaper Co., South Langhorne. He was but a block from his home, just above Langhorne station of the Reading Railroad when the accident occurred.

Pennsylvania State Police, South Langhorne barracks, investigated the case. Officer Sauer being assigned.

The car was operated by Rees J. Frescoln, Jr., of State street, Newtown.

CROYDON

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wisler have moved to their newly-purchased home on Rose avenue.

Mrs. Faye Williams has returned to her home from Abington Hospital, where she was a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cornwell are being congratulated upon the birth of a son in the Wagner Hospital on Tuesday. The baby has been named William James. He weighed seven pounds, 5½ ounces. Mrs. Cornwell will be remembered as the former Miss Emma Lou Robinson.

TULLYTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mazzochi entertained at a family dinner in honor of their nephew, Lawrence Silve, who left on Monday for training with the U. S. Navy.

CHANGE TIME OF RITES

The funeral of Marco D'Eustachio, Jr., scheduled for this afternoon, has been changed until tomorrow, as the father of the infant has been delayed in reaching home from his service camp. The funeral will be held at 9.45 tomorrow morning from the D'Eustachio home, 13 Lincoln avenue, with blessing in St. Ann's R. C. Church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mark's Cemetery.

AIRPLANES WILL NO DOUBT BE IMPORTANT MEANS OF TRANSPORTATION AFTER WAR THINKS BRISTOL HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT

This is American Education Week and it is noted that education for victory is a vital purpose of the schools today. Winning the war is all important. To this end the schools have converted their programs in accordance with the needs of the armed forces, of industry, and of government.

A series of articles written by Bristol high school students are being published in connection with the observance of American Education Week.

"EDUCATION IN THE AIR AGE"

By Kermit Marsh, 10-A

Today news events pertaining to the air tell of battles over New Guinea or Italy or great bombing missions over Essen, Hamburg, and Cologne. But what of tomorrow's air situation?

Already airline companies have made applications for routes totaling 350,000 miles. Flying will, no doubt, be the chief means of transportation as is seen by the present dependency upon aircraft for important jobs in carrying goods.

Great four-motored bombers, designed to carry tons of bombs, will be able to carry more freight and passengers than the transport planes being used today. The small planes, commonly called "lison planes" may be used as pilot trainers and will, possibly, be the public's chief means of transportation. Fast pursuit and fighter planes may be used to transport executives and to act as messenger planes.

You might ask, "Where does education come into this?" Education is important because, since tomorrow will be an air-age, there must be people to fly and repair the planes. Each and every person of tomorrow will at sometime, come into contact with transportation, just as everyone does today.

So we, who are to be the leaders of tomorrow, should have a knowledge of all things connected with flying. Many positions in this field will be open after the war. Mechanics, radio-men, and navigators will be in demand.

Our present courses in Mathematics will be very valuable later. Languages will be important as the

LEGION OF MERIT IS GIVEN YARDLEY MAN

Thomas H. Woolman One Of 50 Participating In Medical Experiment

TESTS FOR MALARIA

A Yardley man, Thomas H. Woolman, was among 50 other Army privates who yesterday were awarded the Legion of Merit for their participation in a test as part of a medical experiment, the War Department announced.

The Bucks County man is Thomas H. Woolman. Woolman was one of 11 Pennsylvania men who risked their lives in a deliberate exposure to malaria in the New Guinea jungles as part of the medical experiment. These men were quartered in a swampy coconut grove near a native village where the inhabitants showed a high percentage of malarial infection.

During the six weeks covering the experiment, the men spent their working hours at hard physical labor and no steps were taken to protect them. Only after they became victims did they receive prompt treatment.

Simultaneously, malaria tests were conducted with two other groups, one being given atabrine as a malaria suppressive, the second group using a drug, the efficacy of which had not been established fully. The purpose of the experiment was to obtain comparative data from cases within the three groups.

Legion Auxiliary Has Launched Bond Drive

The American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Pennsylvania, yesterday launched the most gigantic project in the history of the organization—a War Bond campaign to sponsor 50 army ambulance planes costing $10,000 each—or in other words a campaign to sell $5,000,000 worth of war bonds.

The campaign will extend to December 16th, embracing two outstanding days—Armistice Day and Pearl Harbor Day. Thus 30 days in which to canvass the communities are afforded.

Only series "E" bonds can be credited to this drive; payroll savings bonds not counting in the drive.

In a statement issued today by Mrs. Arthur Beaver, department chairman of war activities, through the Auxiliary of Robert W. Bracken Post, it is said: "With the intensive fighting which at this very minute is in progress and the invasions which are being planned for the future, it is inevitable that our casualties will be steadily on the increase. The number of total casualties which we will face depends on the speed with which our wounded men are removed from the scene of battle to base hospitals and back to the United States. Keep . . . in mind . . . you are making it possible to increase the number of ambulance planes which will carry our wounded men—50—a tremendous contribution to the war effort and to the saving of those precious American lives. . . . This is your challenge! . . . Back them to the limit!"

CLUB INFORMED OF STAINED GLASS WORK

George W. Sotter, Holicong, Addresses Doylestown Kiwanians

SUCH WORKERS FEW

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 12.—George W. Sotter, of Holicong, distinguished stained glass artist, was the guest speaker at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, on Tuesday.

He was presented by the associate program chairman, the Rev. George M. Whitenack, Jr., and spoke on "An Artistic Activity in the Community." Mr. Sotter presented a number of colored slides taken at his Holicong studio, showing the various steps in the manufacture of stained glass windows.

"I feel fortunate in being able to do my work where I have always wanted to live, Bucks county," Mr. Sotter remarked.

The guest told Kiwanians that he studied under the internationally famous Edward W. Redfield, in fact he was the only male student that Redfield ever had. He came to Bucks county after spending considerable time in various sections of the United States, and at Holicong the Sotter studio was originated and developed in an old barn which has been rated as "the most perfect stained glass studio in the country."

Mr. Sotter has been in Bucks county for 24 years. One of his stained glass windows—a reproduction of his own barn—studio—is in a church in England. It is said of the distinguished Holicong artist that he is "the man who made a King look at a Bucks county barn."

Two of Mr. Sotter's students now have studios of similar type in Bucks county, he said. At the present time the staff of artists at the Sotter Studio is about depleted with the exception of the owner himself. A number of his artists are in the service while others are in defense work. Mr. Sotter said that he has been working 18 months on one single window, and that it is not yet completed, all due to war conditions causing a shortage of help.

The annual Kiwanis Club auction date was finally set as Tuesday evening, December 7th.

Kiwanis guests included Lt. Donald Chubb, of Doylestown, and Earl Handy, warden of the Bucks County Prison.

Mrs. M. Nicoletti Dies; Known to Many Locally

Mrs. Anna Nicoletti died yesterday at her home, 7168 Hagerman street, Tacony.

The deceased's husband, Michael Nicoletti, is well-known to members of the local order, Sons of Italy, he having organized the lodge here in 1915. He was also grand deputy for 22 years.

The funeral, to which relatives and friends, and Tacony Lodge of Sons of Italy are invited, will be held on Monday at 8.30 from the Nicoletti residence, in Tacony, with High Requiem Mass in Our Lady of Consolation Church, Tacony, at 10 o'clock. Burial in St. Dominic's Cemetery, Holmesburg, will be in charge of Vincent D. Galzerano, funeral director.

FALSE FIRE CALL

Firemen answered a false alarm last night when they went to Maple Beach on a telephone call which reported a barn opposite the Rohm & Haas club house was afire.

Navy Man Scores Brewster Union

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Lieutenant Leo Hoffman, Naval security officer assigned to the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation, told a House investigating subcommittee yesterday that from 10 to 20 per cent of Brewster's employees "won't work and can't be discharged because the union won't allow it."

Hoffman, whose father, Representative Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.), has long been a violent critic of organized labor, told the committee that fully one-third of the guard force was guilty of insubordination.

"They take the posts they're ordered to take, but they take them as dummies," he said.

"Within the past week, persons have been permitted inside a forbidden zone around new planes accepted by the Navy."

He said there have been repeated instances of theft of clocks from cockpits of new planes.

Hoffman said that even under the new management of Henry J. Kaiser, "loafing and idling" continued in the plant to a noticeable degree.

Another witness, Paul J. Krebs, secretary of Local 365, United Automobile Workers (CIO), took issue with previous testimony that 33 planes were lost by strikes and slowdowns at Brewster.

On that basis, he said, "for every plane theoretically lost by strikes and slowdowns, 70 were lost by management."

The firm, under C. A. Van Dusen and Frederick Riebel, Jr., former presidents, was struggling with several different kinds of planes and an unusual amount of engineering changes.

Despite the management's "black record" of failure in planning, materials flow and employee relations, Krebs said, it would be unfair to charge it with loss of all the planes.

It is equally unfair, he said, to represent "American workers as laying down on the job . . . to hide the inability of management to cope with the problems of material flow."

TELLS W. C. T. U. OF HIS WORK IN CHINA

Percival Bailey Appears As Speaker Before Bristol Organization

FETE MRS. A. SANDS

The monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Doron Green, Radcliffe street, Tuesday evening.

The chairman of International Relations, Miss Mary J. Haines, introduced Percival Bailey, England, who for some time lived in China where he did welfare work.

Mr. Bailey made various comments on the Chinese people, their country, living conditions and their life during the war. Speaking of the Chinese students, the speaker stated that in the beginning of the war they were not allowed to enlist in the army and as their schools of learning were destroyed by the Japanese, the students walked thousands of miles into the interior, carrying their books and apparatus upon their backs! Today the students are allowed to enlist and their presence has had a salutary effect upon the army.

It was very illuminating to learn that every fourth child in the world is born of Chinese parents. "The Chinese are not an inventive race, even though in the past gun powder was produced by them. Floods are annual and yet the Chinese engineer has not prevented them. Famine follows upon the floods, and thousands are without food and shelter each year. The farming instruments are of the same pattern as was used thousands of years ago. Chop sticks were used in China when we were eating with our fingers."

"The Youth Movement in China is a combination of Christianity and Confucianism. It has been prophetic that China with her great population will some day be the foremost country in the world. The cornerstone of the Chinese thought has been the family, its preservation and care."

A social hour was enjoyed, one of great interest, in that a loyal and devoted member, Mrs. Ada Sands, had reached her 80th birthday. A beautiful cake and the accompanying candles, and with ice cream, made a pleasant surprise for Mrs. Sands. Group singing was much enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held at the Keene Home with Miss Haines as hostess on December 21st, at which time Christmas will be celebrated.

TREVOSE STUDENTS ARE GIVEN CITATION

For Their Record Achieved In Sale of War Bonds And Stamps

RIDE IN ARMY JEEP

Wednesday was a banner day for the students of Trevoze public school. At 10 o'clock in the morning, their dreams were finally realized when an army jeep, driven by Capt. M. R. Buck, U. S. Army, drew into the school grounds.

Assembly was called by Harold Hilgendorf, principal, beneath the flag in the school yard. Capt. Buck presented a citation of merit from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau for the exceptional record achieved by the students in the sale of war bonds and stamps.

After the award, the captain gave a brief talk on jeeps and their value in this war. Then followed an exhibition of its versatility demonstrated by Capt. Buck and 1st Lt. Russell, U. S. A. Signal Corps, who had just arrived home on furlough. Each student in the senior grades experienced the thrill of riding in an army jeep, and the entire countryside echoed with their delighted shrieks.

The junior department was not altogether forgotten. At 1.30 p. m., two marine jeeps arrived and took the situation in hand, these being secured by Joseph Stevens, district chairman of the Trevoze area, and spent the balance of the afternoon giving rides to the younger children and faculty.

AT CONVENTION

Alfred Tomesani, Mill street, is spending five days in Cleveland, O., as representative of the local Pietro Metastasio Lodge, at the Sons of Italy convention in that city.

Russell E. Dill Is Rotary Club Speaker

Russell E. Dill, vice-president of Kaiser Cargo, Inc., was the guest speaker at the Armistice Day program of the Rotary Club at the Elks' Home here yesterday afternoon.

Dill, who is a past commander of the Bronxville, N. Y., American Legion Post, and an honorary member of the Waco, Texas, Rotary Club, spoke on many aspects of the post war planning of industry as it affects the country as a whole and as it will affect this community.

A presentation of a 25-year American Legion pin was made to Dr. J. Fred Wagner by Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., of Bracken Post, No. 382. Other members who were entitled to this pin received theirs at a program at the Legion Home earlier. Schmidt also introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Dill. John O. Stemmer was in charge of the meeting.

TWO MEN HELD FOR COURT; HAD TRUCK OF BOOTLEG LIQUOR

Truck Was Enroute From New York to Phila., Say Police

53 CASES OF WILSON

Both Men Claimed They Were Innocent of Law's Violation

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 12.—Two men were taken into custody and later held for court when the truck they were operating was found to contain what is claimed to be "bootleg" liquor.

Those held for court gave their names as:

Andrew Toloneo, 34, of 34th street, Philadelphia.

Anthony Corsey, 28, South 32nd street, Philadelphia.

The truck was stopped here just as it reached the Pennsylvania side of the Morrisville-Trenton Delaware river bridge, yesterday. The bridges spanning the Delaware river between Pennsylvania and New Jersey were all being watched for "bootleg" liquor after police had been informed that a load of liquor was enroute to Pennsylvania.

Agents of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, Pennsylvania State Police, and Enforcement Officers of the Federal Alcohol Tax Department, had all of the bridges under guard after they had been "tipped off" that a truck loaded with liquor was enroute from New Jersey. They did not know which bridge route would be taken so all bridges were guarded.

The Dodge panel truck contained, the officers say, 53 cases of Wilson rye whiskey. Some of the cases had been opened and some bottles removed, according to the report.

Toloneo, driver of the truck, said that he had been approached in Philadelphia and told to drive to New York for a load. Arriving in New York he was ordered to back his truck up against a trailer-truck and then went for his lunch. Returning to his truck he was ordered to drive to Philadelphia.

Corsey is an automobile mechanic in Philadelphia and he told the police that he was called to fix the truck and was riding back to Philadelphia.

The two men were taken before Justice of Peace Neal Nolan and Toloneo was held in $1,000 bail for court while Corsey was held in $300 bail.

Dr. Robert Davis Speaks To Marine Ass'n Members

The members of Lower Bucks County Marine Association entertained guests last evening at the station of Goodwill Hose Co. here.

Dr. Robert Davis, of Audubon, N. J., originator of the Davis method of artificial respiration, was the speaker. Dr. Davis thoroughly explained his method of artificial respiration, and a demonstration of said method by two drill teams of the Audubon Rescue Squad followed.

Members of Union Rescue Squad of Titusville and Washington Crossing were also in attendance. Refreshments followed.

BABY ARRIVES

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Lannan, Jr., of Clairton, formerly of Bristol Township, on October 29th. The baby weighed nearly nine pounds at birth, and has been named Louis E. Lannan, 3rd.

VISITS PARENTS

Lewis Barton, 302 Otter street, has been promoted to Petty Officer, 2nd Class. He has been spending three days' leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Barton.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Farouk Intervenes in Lebanon Crisis

Cairo.—King Farouk of Egypt intervened today in the crisis which has beset Lebanon, French mandated Arab state.

The British and American ambassadors to Cairo were summoned to the Royal Palace for discussion of the latest developments in Lebanon where the President, Bechara El-Khoury, Premier Riad El-Solh and other government members were placed under arrest.

The French delegate to Lebanon, Jean Helou, was reported to have ordered the arrest of the Lebanese officials after conferring in Algiers with the French National Committee of Liberation. The arrests came after the Lebanese Chamber passed a law denying the French any say in what the independent chamber might discuss and in effect ended the mandate.

Farouk wired a message to President El-Khoury assuring him of Egypt's friendship in the crisis.

Red Army Within 10 Miles of Important Rail Junction

Moscow.—Hard-driving units of the Red army today were reported within 10 miles northeast of the important rail junction of Zhitomir on the last German-held north-south railway east of the Polish Border.

Front dispatches said that Soviet troops, fanning out westward from liberated Kiev, continued their advance while in the Crimea other Russian forces threatened to capture the rail terminus of Kerch. The latter city already was said to be in flames, as Red army forces drove toward it from bridgeheads to the northwest and south.

The drive toward Zhitomir and the other vital junction of Korosten on the same line liberated more than 100 additional towns. Another new drive was reported in the Reichs sector to the north.

THE IMPODERABLE

Versions of low German morale have been coming out of Turkey, Sweden, Switzerland,
Portugal and other neutral listening posts of Europe for many weeks. The latest estimate from Switzerland indicates that pessimism and distrust are almost universal there.

So black is the mood of the Germans, because of reverses in Russia and the cumulative effects of the air attacks, that they have lost all faith in the Nazi leadership.

This view is corroborated in some measure by accounts of the wounded prisoners of war—Britons, Canadians and Americans—who were imprisoned inside Germany until their recent exchange.
They say that the fear of the bomber, the strain of sons and fathers not heard from for months
and years and the deadly monotony of Nazi living conditions are beginning to tell. How long will it be until Germans turn their ire upon leaders who took them into war?

This is the chief imponderable of the European situation. It has been the imponderable ever since Hitler had the bad judgment to take a people into war who already were on the verge of bread-lines, and then committed the further error of attacking with bombers when he could not defend himself from them.

It is impossible to predict how long it will take the strained German morale to explode within the Reich. Sweden thinks it will be anywhere from a few weeks to early next year. But it is inevitable.

RUSSIAN VICTORIES

Russian victories have brought the German armies to the most desperate situation they have faced at any time since the beginning of the war. They are facing the collapse of the whole Russian enterprise and a disaster which will demonstrate to the world,
including the people of the Reich,
that Germany stands now exactly where it stood a quarter of a century ago.

The possible consequences of military reversals in Russia must fill the mind of the Fuehrer with dismay. Unless the merciless drive of the Red army can be checked, the Germans face the certainty of complete disaster in Russia this winter.

The Allies of Russia have not been negligible factors in the transformation wrought in the military situation along the Eastern Front. Not only were there vast direct shipments of war materials to Russia, but British and American bombers, bent upon the destruction of Germany city by city and town by town, have drawn the bulk of the Nazi air force away from the Russian front.

Mayor LaGuardia surely wasn't looking at his own hat
when he asserted that no city anywhere can win away New York's style leadership.

Money in circulation in this country totals $19,019,000,000
exclusive of what's behind the

DEACONESS TO TELL OF WORK IN CHINA

Guest Speaker at Hulmeville To Relate Her Experiences

CHURCH AFFAIRS

Deaconess Elsie W. Riehe will be a guest on Sunday, at 11 a. m., at Grace Episcopal Church, Hulme-ville. This missionary has recently returned from war-torn China.

Deaconess Riehe has had one of the most extraordinary experiences of any of the mission staff in that great country. During air raids over the inland city of Ishang
where she was working, 1,000 miles up the Yangtze, bombs exploded so near her that she picked up pieces of them too hot to hold. With one of the Chinese clergy she carried on relief work for many months before the city was occupied, as thousands of refugees arrived at Ishang from eastern China. After the city was taken, she continued working for the good of the suffering people. She even managed to run a farm to increase their food supply.

Deaconess Riehe was born in Pingree, N. D., graduating from New York Training School for Deaconesses. She went to China in 1915, returning to the United States only because she was compelled to after 35 years of service in China, and five years of war.

"THAT KEITH WOMAN"

by PHYLLIS MOORE GALLAGHER

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Mother said: "What on earth happened, Letty? I woke up a few moments ago and, when I looked at the clock and realized you were still out, I was simply frantic! Dad called the Keith house and a policeman—a policeman, Letty—answered the telephone!" She waved Peter and me into the drawing-room, just as if it were four o'clock in the afternoon instead of dawn.
We knotted into a group around the radiator; then Peter and I told what had happened to Pam Keith.
"Murdered?" Mother gasped.
"Why I can't believe it, Letty!
Who on earth did it?"
"That's what we—and the police—
would like to know," said Peter.
"I thought it was strange Doctor
Courtney came back to Washington
after all these years," declared Mother. "He never did forgive Pamela for walking out on their marriage. He was madly in love with her and I remember tales of what a difficult time his parents had with him afterwards. He went hog-wild for nearly a year; then he settled down and finished medical school—and, of course, became a famous surgeon. Perhaps he went on hating Pamela all these years."

"How about Luke Cramer?"
mused Dad. "He was engaged to Mrs. Keith but I certainly saw him
the other afternoon in the cocktail lounge at The Mayflower with a charming woman. They looked very chummy too."

"If they're doing murder by remote control these days, I said
"then Luke might be suspect. He was in Philadelphia tonight." I told about talking with Luke over the telephone; and then I related what I'd heard sitting near the south wall of the drawing-room. I said I couldn't understand how I'd heard the Sergeant's voice, but I was going to make it my business to find out. In fact, I had decided—though I said nothing about it to Peter or my parents—that I was going to make it my business to find out a lot of things soon, among them the reason why Peter Gibson's neck was banded.

In the days that followed, I did just that: I became an amateur detective with all the zeal of a young crusader. I came to know everyone's business even better than I knew my own, and I must confess I found other people's business far more interesting.

Presently Mother and Dad went into the kitchen to make some coffee
and I unearthed a caddy of cigarettes and began to fill the various boxes around the room. Peter was silent as I did so. He was standing in front of a gold-framed portrait of one of my ancestors, studying it thoughtfully. A formidable dame
she must have been too, with a hand that rocked the cradle being equally capable of doing other things, such as scalping an Indian with his own tomahawk. I wished Peter would concentrate on one of the other portraits—the swashbuckling Confederate officer or the little red-head
who was very pretty and demure and looked as if she had been afraid of everything, including her own pantalettes.

With the cigarette boxes filled, I extracted a cigarette for myself.
Peter instantly sprang forward with a lighted match. Our eyes met across that little spurt of flame and my heart stood on its hands and flipped over backwards.

"Just, exactly, who are you, Peter Gibson?" I asked. "And why are you in Washington?"

Peter grinned. "I'd tell you, but it would only lead to bloodshed!
Who are you, Letty?"

"Daisy June," I said—and we both laughed.

Dad came in then, bringing coffee
on a silver tray. Mother followed.
She'd skipped into her bedroom,
had taken down her curlers and had shed her Eskimo ensemble. She was wearing a diaphanous white chiffon negligee and looked so beautiful and young and different that Peter shot punctiliously to his feet. I knew his silence meant he was waiting to be introduced.

"It's just Mom," I said lightly.
"Yes, yes, of course," responded
Peter, completely undone.

We four had coffee together and presently I took the milkman rattling around in the hotel corridor with his bottles and eggs and cottage cheese. A moment later, the morning papers arrived making those whooshing noises they always do when the kid who delivers them slaps 'em professionally against our door.

Peter and I went to the service entrance. He brought in the dairy stuff and I scooped up the papers.
There I was on the front page of every sheet in town, along with the war news. . . . That is, on every sheet except the one where I'm employed.

Perversely, the rival papers had dug around until they'd found the most candid photographs of me extant. In one, I was popping a stalk of celery into my mouth at someone's luncheon during my debut
year and I looked mouthily like Joe E. Brown. In another, I was mounting a horse and much of what could be seen of me was the part of my anatomy that was going to sit squarely in the saddle. The third was one of those wistful things that made me look like a cow that's just been told she'd got to give her all for Grade-A humanity!

What had happened to Peter and he had been of such brief duration that it was still largely a matter of shifting moods and adjustments and impressions. I thought very soberly that Peter might never be able to look at me again without remembering these "candid," and I'd remain forever ludicrous in his critical dark eyes. I looked up at him miserably.
And he was chuckling! Chuck-ling! His face suffused with color, his eyes screwed up into a black tangle of lashes.

I knew then that everyone IS a potential murderer. I could have clubbed him over the dome with one of the milk bottles—and loved it!

It was a little kink in Sandra Keith's make-up, a phobia, which caused me to move over, bag and baggage, to the Keith house on

Lawn Avenue that Sunday morning
—something I was to regret horribly. Sandra was afraid of being alone at night and she'd asked me to come and I'd said, "Sure, I'd love to, Sandra."

After Reginald directed me to the blue-and-gold guest room adjoining Sandra's and a maid began to unpack my two bags, I telephoned Clem Barkley at the Tribune. Clem had asked me to write 700 words on my reactions when I'd stumbled across Pamela Keith's murdered body. After breakfast I had done so and had sent the article off by messenger. I was wondering if Clem thought I'd done a good job
and if so, what would come of it.
Maybe I'd get to be a real reporter!

"Nice work, Red-Head," Clem said, enthusiastically. "I've got jitters. I'm so jumpy I keep looking behind my chair to see if anyone is sneaking up on me. Maybe you can write at that."

When I hung up, I was glowing.
Maybe you can write! The words kept ringing in my head. I began whirling about the room in delight;
then remembered that this was a house of mourning, a house of tragedy.
I stopped in my tracks and found the maid staring at me disapprovingly.

"Is Miss Sandra awake?" I asked,
when I'd recovered some poise.

"Yes, Miss Randolph," she said,
and I went over to the door that connected my room with Sandra's and knocked lightly. There was no answer. I banged again. No answer. My heart stood still!

The next time I almost knocked Sandra's door down and a small,
far-away voice said, "Come in."

Sandra was leaning back against black and silver pillows, her golden hair twisted up into three loose curls
on the top of her head which lengthened and pointed her lovely face. A pale blue marabou bed-cape was around her shoulders and across her lap was a breakfast tray, the food untouched. She was almost pathetically grateful to see me and, as I went over to her, she put out one of her slim little hands and caught mine in it, hard.

"I can't tell you how sorry I am about—everything." I managed thickly, for Sandra's wan little face hurt me.

"You're so good to stay with me, Letty," she said, and her voice shook. "Everyone's so good." She bit her lower lip, and it suddenly came to me that Sandra had never heard that visitors were the original plague of Egypt for she said, "I've asked the Countess to stay with me, too. And Marvin and Elsie will be here for a few days. They had planned to fly to Florida this morning. They'd leased their house to a congressman and his wife for two months, but now the police won't let any place to go. Every hotel in Washington is full. You know how it is in Washington now. I felt responsible for them. And Luke telephoned this morning. He's on his way here now."

HULMEVILLE

Wartime food problems will be in the focus of attention at the November 17th meeting of the Hulmeville-Middletown PTA in the school building. Motion pictures describing various methods of food gathering and preparation will start the meeting promptly at eight o'clock, followed by a short talk on family nutrition under rationing. The program will close with a quiz check-list, to the winner of which the Supple Milk Company of Philadelphia will offer a prize of $5 in war saving stamps. Following the program a business meeting is scheduled to discuss final details for the reopening after Thanksgiving of the school cafeteria, of which Mrs. Herbert Rongley is chairman. The ways and means committee reports will be made by Russell Haines, and Mrs. Willard Bartoe will preside. Refreshments will be served in the school cafeteria by a committee headed by Mrs. Walter Jackson. Because it is believed that many older students will find this special program of interest to them, all high school and eighth grade pupils have been invited to attend and participate in the quiz contest. The usual prize will be given to the Hulmeville school grade with the largest number of parents and friends in attendance.

Pvt. William T. Mercer, of the U. S. Marine Corps, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mercer, Bellevue avenue. Pvt. Mercer will be transferred from Parris Island, S. C., to Corpus Christi, Texas.

A group of young women feted Miss Nancy Lee Haas at her home on Wednesday evening at a surprise birthday party in honor of her 16th anniversary. Those attending were: the Misses Betty Allen, Ruth Ehrlich, Marian Haman, Mildred Lamo and Verna Alhum. A social time was followed by the serving of refreshments.

Dorothy Snedeker, Pharmacist 2/c, a member of the WAVES, will arrive in Hulmeville on November 29th, for an eight-day period of leave. The young woman is stationed at Norfolk Naval Hospital, Norfolk, Va.

YARDLEY

Announcements have been received here of the engagement of Miss Helene Ackerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ackerman, of the Newtown-Langhorne Road, to Private John Granger, of the Marine Corps. His home is in Buffalo, N. Y. Miss Ackerman is a nurse in the Woman's Medical College Hospital in Philadelphia. The Ackermans are former Yardley residents.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Torongo have had as guests for a few days, Mrs. Julius Wernecke, of Pensacola, Fla.; Mrs. Russell E. Dean, of Norwich, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. DiYeso, of White Plains, N. Y. Richard Horwell, who has been a patient in a Philadelphia hospital, where she underwent an operation on his eyes, is recovering. Mrs. Fred G. Satterthwaite has returned home after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Richard Vauls, of Flushing, N. Y.

FACTS ABOUT WHISKEY RATIONING

PURPOSE: So that all Pennsylvania citizens may share State Store supplies on an equitable basis.

WHISKEY RATIONING PERIOD: Whiskey rationing in Pennsylvania begins Monday, November 15. The rationing period will extend to December 31.

ONLY WHISKEY IS RATIONED: You may buy one four-fifths quart bottle and one pint bottle of whiskey during this period. If you desire both bottles, they must be purchased at one time.

RUMS, GINS, BRANDIES, WINES NOT RATIONED: You may buy any quantity of Rums and of most United States Wines and Foreign Wines at any time. The sale of brandy, gin or cordials and of sweet wines, sparkling wines and vermouth is limited to one bottle at any one time.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR PURCHASE: Present your WAR RATION BOOK No. 3. Each citizen must present his or her own book. None can buy for another.

Each person will fill out a slip available at all State Stores. This slip is reproduced here:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA		SERIES A		PENNSYLVANIA LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD
LIQUOR PURCHASE APPLICATION
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____ (STREET) _____ (CITY) _____ (STATE) _____
AGE	SEX	WEIGHT	HIGHT	OCCUPATION
U. S. WAR RATION BOOK NO. 3 NUMBER _____
SIGNATURE OF APPLICANT _____

The information you will give is exactly what is on your War Ration Book No. 3. It will identify you, provide a record of sale and register you in the event a permanent rationing program is adopted. Thus, you will be put to no further inconvenience. The name on the slip must correspond with the one on the War Ration Book and be signed in the State Store.

Present your slip and your War Ration Book No. 3 to the State Store clerk. Give him your order. He will compare the name on the War Ration Book No. 3 with the name on the slip. If the names correspond, he will fill your order and retain the slip.

The clerk will complete the transaction by stamping and punching the inside back cover of your War Ration Book No. 3 indicating you have received your allotment.

MEMBERS OF ARMED FORCES: Officers and enlisted members of the armed forces in Pennsylvania, who have attained the legal age of 21, will be rationed under a plan which is being worked out by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board with the Military Authorities.

All brands of whiskey now on hand will be apportioned to each store on a daily allotment basis, so that all available brands will be obtainable each day for the rationing period.

Choice of brands will be limited by the number of brands and amounts obtainable. Every buyer will get his quota of whiskey for the period but he may not be able to get the brand he wants.

Book Reviews Enjoyed And Characters Impersonated

The regular meeting of the Junior Travel Club was held last evening in the club home, with the president, Mrs. Robert Wright, presiding. Mrs. "Jerry" McCarty tendered her resignation as treasurer, and the assistant, Miss "Molly" Amole, was appointed to take over the office.

Reports were presented by the various committees, and there was also an auditor's report. It was decided to change the date for the "white elephant" bazaar and card party from November 18th to December 2nd, due to other activities.

Reports were given about the Reading conference by Mrs. Bryon Hopkins and Mrs. Robert Wright who attended the sessions. Reports were also presented of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs sessions which were held in Bristol two weeks ago.

New members were voted upon and will be entertained at the next meeting of the club.

The president reviewed the meeting of last Friday evening, when the senior club entertained the juniors. This meeting was thoroughly enjoyed by 20 of the juniors, and at that time six of the girls volunteered to give blood at the next bleeding day.

It was voted to give donations to the Needlework Guild, to the tuberculosis drive and the War Fund drive. It was also decided to give a wedding gown for the British women in service. The gown will be made by members of the club.

The entertainment committee, with Mrs. Leonard Bassett in charge, then presented a program. Three book reviews were given: "The Robe" was very ably presented by Miss Marie Buchler, as were "Hungry Hill" by Mrs. Howard Schultz, and "Centennial Summer" by Mrs. Leonard Bassett.

A group of girls, representing a book or a character in a book, appeared on the stage, and by their dress or actions, members were to guess who they represented. Refreshments were served by the social committee, composed of Miss Ruth Blanche, Mrs. James Boltz, Mrs. Douglas Chilton and Mrs. Thomas Coles.

SPORTSMEN'S
BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Made a grouse hunting trip to Pike County yesterday with John Johnson, Ralph Ratcliffe, Phil Sonder and Russell Johnson. The birds were wild. Flushed plenty but couldn't see them. Shot at plenty but didn't hit them. Snowed all day long. As one member of our party, who had six shots, said, "If I could have had nineteen more shots I believe I might have got one." I've heard it said before that a good hunter can get his limit with a box of shells. The limit is two per person per day. Saw at least 20 deer including two big bucks during the day.

Fishermen take note: A paragraph from a letter dated November 8, from the office of the Fish Commissioner, C. A. French: "I knew you will be very much pleased to know that we are going to stock additional bass in Silver Lake in the very near future. We find we have some at the Pymatung Hatchery and they should be coming along now in a very short time."

Silver Lake received a stocking several weeks ago of 500 large-mouth bass, but local sportsmen were generally of the opinion that the planting should have been larger, particularly in view of the fact that the recent stocking was the first in at least the last three years of large-mouth bass.

The Commission is to be commended for taking these extra efforts to give us more bass, since considerably fewer men are now in the employ of the Commission (now in the armed forces) and also because of the tire and gasoline problems. And no doubt when conditions return to normal they will do a job that no sportsmen in this area will be able to complain about.

There was a sharp reduction in the number of stray and uncontrolled dogs killed by local police officers during September, the Bureau of Animal Industry in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture recently announced. The total of 1,663 compares with 2,195 killed in August. Bureau agents killed 65 strays in September compared with 80 the month previous.

Unconfirmed reports of two big fish caught in local waters in recent days. A thirty-inch pickerel weighing more than four pounds is said to have been taken in Silver Lake recently. Also have an unconfirmed report that a 24-inch bass was taken in the Canal in the Edgely section last Sunday. Live bait was reported used for the pickerel; an artificial bait was said to have attracted the bass.

The State Game Commission recently announced that no additional copies of the 1943-44 Game Law Pamphlet will be printed until the 1944-45 period.

No printing of the laws will be undertaken for the 1943-44 period because only a few changes were made in the Game Laws by the 1942 Special and 1943 Regular sessions of the Legislature. It was deemed unwise to utilize the required amount of paper so vital to the war effort. 3,000 pounds, to print the complete pamphlet as heretofore. A supplement containing the changes will be printed, however, and it may be obtained from the Game Commission at Harrisburg.

BRISTOL HIGH TO PLAY MT. AIRY XI. TOMORROW

The Bristol High School team will travel to Mt. Airy tomorrow afternoon to clash with the Pennsylvania School for Deaf eleven.

Last season these two clubs battled to a tie on the local gridiron.

It was announced that week that Leo Johnson, quarterback for the local gridsters, will be out for the remainder of the season. Johnson suffered an injury to his side in the Burlington game.

Despite the fact that it lost
Bristol played a fine brand of ball
against the Jerseyites, outscoring
the winners in first downs, 8-3.
Only Dean Bowker, Burlington
back, did any damage against the Bristol team and a fumble prevented a Bristol score in the second quarter.

P. S. D. has a strong club this season and handed Conshohocken a surprise early in the season by beating them, 6-0. Jack Christine who starred against Bristol last season is still in the Deaf School's lineup and scored the only touchdown in the Conshohocken game.
